The Baggage Handler

September 10, 2006 What's In Your Bag?

POCKET CHANGE FEATURE ARTICLE: Never Give Up

Donald Trump was quoted as saying that "success was reserved for people with unrelenting belief in their abilities, the drive to keep moving forward, and persistence to the very end." "Never give up" has always been one of my favorite quotes because I have heard it numerous times by some of the most successful people on the planet. People who persist at what they believe in are rarer than you might think. It's easy to give up. But it takes a special kind of person to keep going strong after everyone else has thrown in the towel. I would not be a nonsmoker and a published author today, if I had given up on myself. So, I'm living proof that perseverance is critical to achievement. Therefore, for those of you pursuing goals with no or little success, I have good news for you. If this goal is something you really want and believe in- Continue to pursue it with a fiery passion and be open to trying different routes. It is then that it will come. And that's THE GOD's truth.

Congratulations: CONTEST WINNER - Kimberly Brown**

Last month's contest was as follows: Please send 4-7 sentences answering the following question:

What is/are your greatest strength(s) and how can it/they be used to benefit others?

Kimberly wrote us with the following answer: My greatest strengths are courage, patience and perseverance. I have had many struggles throughout my young life, (I'm 24) and have gone through trials usually reserved for those much more seasoned. Because of my willingness to endure, I've made it my mission to be of benefit to those who come after me, more particularly preadolescent and teenage girls- this was the hardest time for me as I struggled to learn how to respect myself when I was certain those closest to me didn't or couldn't love me. I stand as an example of how through tenacity and self-love that one can not only use their life's story to benefit someone else, but can use that wisdom to breathe life into their most cherished ambitions, bringing them into fruition...
